with the support of

the Rhys Davies Trust

A collection of Creative Writing from Year 6

Introduction

Timeline is a creative writing project with year 6 pupils from Rhondda Cynon Taf. In June 2021, eight primary schools in the county took part in a series of live virtual workshops and pieces of writing were created by the pupils based on the theme of 'time travel'.

The project was co-ordinated by Literature Wales, funded by the Rhys Davies Trust and supported by Rhondda Cynon Taf County Borough Council. The workshops were developed and delivered by Lucy Mohan with support from Nerida Bradley. The magazines were designed by Lucy Mohan.

The schools involved in the project were: Craig-Yr-Hesg Primary School, Cwmaman Primary School, Cwmclydach Primary School, Llanharan Primary School, Maerdy Community Primary School, Miskin Primary School, Perthcelyn Community Primary School and Rhigos Primary School.

Literature Wales is the national company for the development of literature. Our vision is a Wales where literature empowers, improves, and brightens lives. We are a registered charity, and work to inspire communities, develop writers and celebrate the literary culture of Wales. We facilitate, fund, and directly deliver a literary programme across Wales.

Dear Reader,

Journey through time with Perthcelyn Community Primary School's Year 6 class, as we travel from the past all the way to potential futures.

Students chose to write either a poem, a short story or the opening of a story.

Here's what they came up with...

Happy reading!

Liam finding Dinosaurs

by Owen Warner

One sunny day, Liam had woken up on the ground. “Mum!” shouted Liam, there was no answer. “Dad!” and again no answer.

He had started to get a funny feeling that they were not there. He had got off the ground and gone to the next door cave where they had slept.

“I wonder where they are?” he had asked himself.

He was going to his mother’s and Father’s favourite place, when suddenly he had heard a noise.

“RRRRRAAAWWWWWWW!!!!”

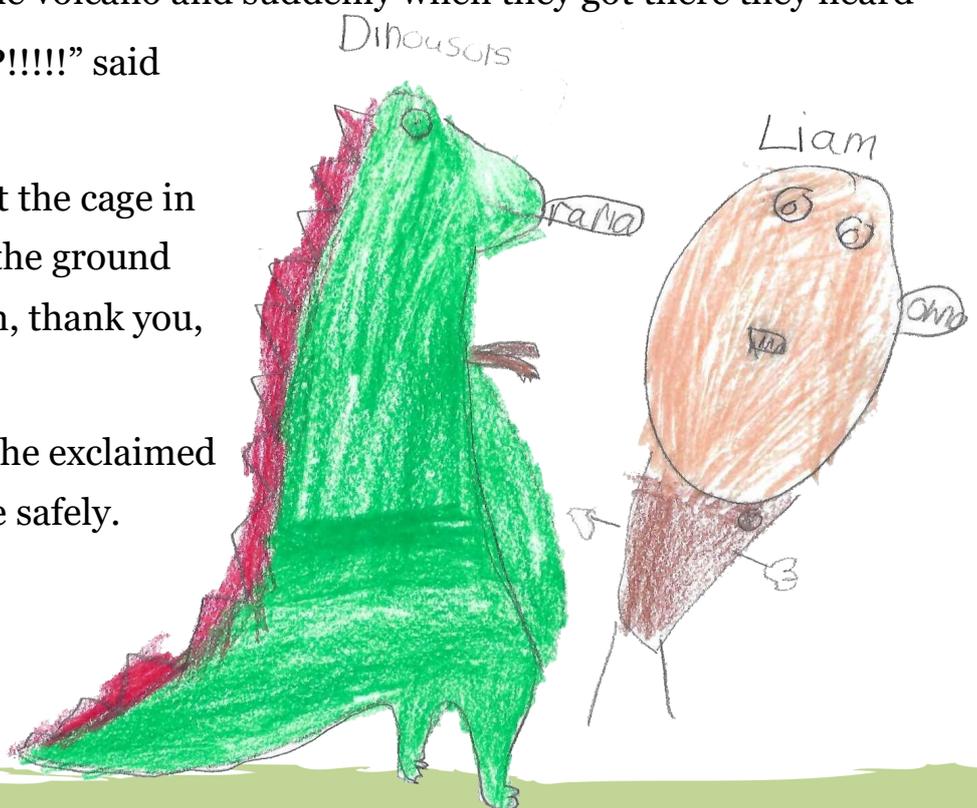

He jumped a mile. He went to the noise and then he had found a dinosaur.

“Er, hello I know you probably you can’t understand me but can I have a ride on the back of you to find my parents please,” and suddenly the dinosaur did something astonishing. He let him go on his back.

They headed to the volcano and suddenly when they got there they heard screaming: “LIAM HELP!!!!” said his parents.

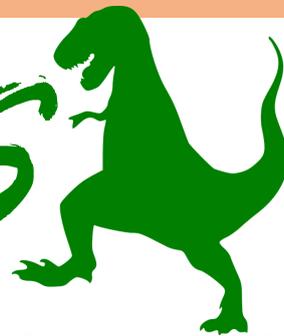

So the dinosaur got the cage in his mouth and put it on the ground and broken the cage. “Oh, thank you, Liam and dinosaur!”

“You’re welcome,” he exclaimed as they had walked home safely.

DINOSAURS

by Kellan Sturtwant

There once was a 22-year-old man called Jack, and he is currently surrounded by 3 raptors. He thought he was doomed but he saw a cave not too far away. He also saw a t-rex in the distance.

All of a sudden, the t-rex gave off a loud roar. The raptors got scared and ran away, so did Jack. At that point, he thought he was dead but he remembered the cave. All of a sudden, he bolted for the cave with the t-rex behind him.

The t-rex started to open its jaw but the path to the cave is starting to go downhill so he started to slide in downhill. He managed to slide in to the cave, in the cave he found a spear, a torch, and some matches.

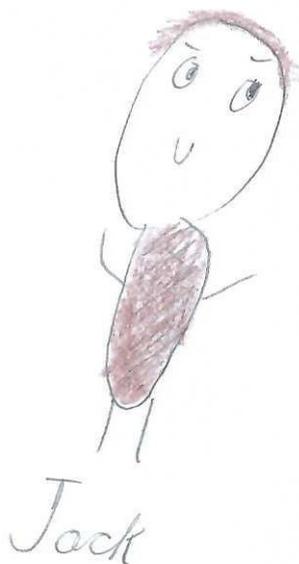

Jack then said, "Is there anyone home?"

But he got no response. He grabbed a match out of the box and he lit the torch with it. All of a sudden, he saw a corpse in the corner of the cave. He jumped back in fear.

He looked at the opening of the cave. The t-rex was gone but he saw a raptor coming his way. He thought, when the raptor gets closer I will spear the raptor's leg.

The raptor got closer and Jack speared the leg of the raptor. He retrieved the spear and stabbed it in the head to make sure it is dead.

Jack then used the raptor skin as clothes. After that, he went and got some wood and stones to make a water filter. After some water, he thought something was off. He then realised that the raptor skin had a disease and he had it. He knew that he was going to die a painful death sooner or later so he killed himself with the spear...

Bob, Glen

and the Plague

Bob was a doctor and he was twenty four years old. He also had jet-black hair. He wore a big, black cloak, small black slide-on shoes and a mask that looked like a bird's head. Also, he wore a small top-hat on his head.

Bob

Bob was a doctor, who worked with his friend Glen. Bob's parents were quite old. His mother was eighty nine and his dad was ninety one. Bob's parents' names were Mary Elizabeth and Bob Edwards [Bob was named after his father].

Bob and Glen were working in work when a patient with a rare disease came in, so Bob and Glen came up with the name. They called it the Plague. After they looked into the plague a bit more, another patient came in with the plague, so they looked at similarities between the two of them and they realised that they both had a high fever and both of them were vomiting. They also found more symptoms. They also found the plague was carried by rodents of any kind. Bob was creating different medicines that helped the plague and Glen helped.

Then the next day Bob got the most brilliant idea, but it was also extremely dangerous: he thought he could combine all of the medicines that helped people with the plague. After, Bob combined all of the medicines he tested it on someone nearly dead and it worked! They gave the medicine to all of the patients and...

Victoria & the Great Fire of London

by Evie Webber

Saturday morning at 5am. This is the time Victoria's dad goes to work down the mines.

Victoria is a thirteen year old girl whose mam died when she was three due to an illness. She lives in North Wales in a little cottage on June Lane. She has brown eyes and blonde hair and her biggest fear was fire.

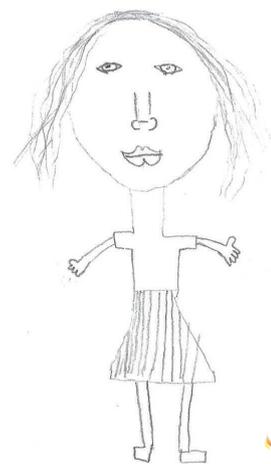

Her dad always made sure there was a banana for her breakfast, bread and cheese for her lunch and, for supper, he leaves her left-over broth. Her dad doesn't earn a lot of money but they try their best to survive.

Her dad leaves when he goes to work and leaves her stays home alone. She goes out to her garden to water her plants and then comes back in. She went upstairs to clean her and her dad's room because there was a blanket and pillow on the floor where they sleep. She then goes to put her shoes by the wall and she notices a crack by the wall. She sees something in the wall and she pulls it out and reads it...

"Take me to a journey to be I've never been before."

Victoria is then transported to London. She has never been here before and she asked this nice lady what the time was. The old lady replies the time and right after that she hears a bang. She started to smell smoke and sees the flames of the fire.

Victoria began to run away and she hears the crying of an elderly woman in the bakery. Victoria knew that she hated fire but she had to go and save her so she went. The elderly women made it out but she didn't... and she takes her shoes off...

I600:

Missing Family

I was an eight-year-old girl with long luscious hair and scraggy clothes, when this tragic time happened.

I am currently eleven years old and living with my dad so I am old enough to understand what happened and remember it like it was yesterday. My name is Elizabeth but my mother called me Lilly.

One day I was in my bedroom with my best friend, my sister Mary. While my mam, dad and dog Ruff was downstairs. My dad came up to check on me and my sister followed by our dog Ruff. Ruff was an old scruffy dog. My dad knocked the door, I answered and his eyes opened wide along with his mouth. He went so pale I was trying to figure out what was happening.

He asked me where my sister was and I said that she went to the loo (the loo was in our shed outside). I looked around and I didn't see my mam, so I asked where mam was but my dad didn't answer. Then all me and my dad could hear was a creaking door and then a slam.

Ruff ran out of the front door.

After that, Dad sat me on the bed and told me that my mam had left with my sister and he didn't know where they were. My eyebrows frowned downwards and I was really confused and shocked. I didn't know what was happening.

My dad said, "Let's sleep it off. We're both so tired."

When we woke up, I wanted to go and find them but my dad said that it was too dangerous to go outside because of the plague. So little me obeyed and sat down. I had tears in my eyes as my face went red.

My dad told me it will be OK because he will keep me safe. The last thing I remembered was my eight-year-old self and my dad had a huge hug of love...

To this day, I still have no answers as to where my mam and sister are.

Name: Plague Doctor

Through the PLAGUE

by Sapphire

Joe SCREAMS, "JACK, WHERE ARE YOU."
Jack doesn't call back to Joe.

Joe starts to smell smoke. Joe hears like a witch's laugh when he gets near a barn. Joe walks in to see Jack tied to a chair and a plague doctor making some kind of soup.

Joe whispers to Jack, "I'll go get some help okay Jack."

Just as soon as Joe is leaving, the plague doctor turns around and sees Joe. The plague doctor drops the soup and starts chasing Joe.

Joe runs outside and sees loads of plague doctors waiting as if they knew he was going to get help. Joe pretends to be dead, but they drag him back inside.

There is a sudden scream and all the plague doctors leave.

Joe gets up and helps Jack. Joe and Jack run out. The boys can see the plague doctors looking around for more children to take. Jack and Joe jump on to the roof and the plague doctors chase after them. Joe drops a tile and it hits one of the plague doctors in the head. It was the mean plague doctor he hit in the head which was a good thing because all the other doctors run off.

When the boys go back to their Nan's house, their Nan has gone shopping. When she comes back, the door is locked because the boys are afraid that the plague doctors will come back and try to get into the house.

Suddenly, they hear a knock at the door. They look through the window and see their Nan standing in the doorway.

"What are you boys doing," she asks.

They let her in and tell her that a plague doctor kidnapped them. They all look out of the window and there is a knock at the door. It is the plague doctor but they did live happily ever after in the end.

BLOODY MARY

by Ava Werret

One day there was a Queen and her friend's. Her friend's name's are Mary and Sophie. And the Queen's name is Bloody Mary.

So her and her friend's were reading their books. They stopped reading their books.

"What was that noise? (BANG!) Go look outside."

"Why me?" shouted Sophie.

"To see what that noise is."

"Ok." She slowly walked to the door. "Hello?" It was dark and windy. And there was thunder and lighting. The Person walked in.

"Umm hello?" said Sophie.

"WHO IS IT?" shouted Mary.

"I don't know," shouted Sophie.

The person laughed. "Ha. Come on, Sophie. It's me."

"It's who?" said Sophie.

"It's me... Thomas."

"Oh, hi Thomas."

"Hi," said Thomas. "Where is Bloody Mary and Mary," said Thomas.

"Upstairs. Why?" said Sophie.

"I want to see them," said Thomas.

"Ok come." said Sophie.

So Bloody Mary, Mary and Sophie and Thomas read a book.

Thomas said, "What now?"

"We can have a sleep over," said Bloody Mary.

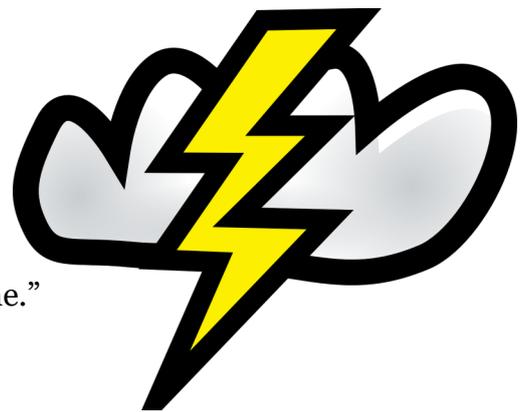

"Yes," said Mary and Thomas.

The thunder and lightning crashed through the house. (CRASH) Everyone woke up.

"WHAT HAS HAPPENED?!" shouted everyone.

"I DON'T KNOW BUT WE NEED TO GET OUT!"

"Run..."

The Bonfire

by Cohen Phillips

Once upon a time there was a boy and a girl called Martin and Lisbeth and they lived in an abandoned house: number 89.

They were really good and kind farmers. Martin had a brown moustache, and Elizabeth was Ginger, and she was looking after sheep, and Martin was working in the mines. They had 10 sheep. Martin is 30 and Elizabeth is 31. Martin got paid every 2 weeks, and he tried buying things for a house.

Elizabeth was walking across the farm and she saw strawberries so she ran to the street and went to the phone box and tried getting hold of Martin but she couldn't.

Martin came home and he said, "Elizabeth, Elizabeth!"

There was no response, but where could she be? He thought to himself and wondered if she would be in the field. Suddenly, she came home and Martin found her. "Where have you been?"

Elizabeth was in the house all along. "Of course, I have been here."

So off they went.

"His home looked better than my house. I have an idea!"

"Thanks for the idea," he said.

"No problem! Do you want to go and see the Bonfire?"

"Okay."

There was an explosion. The bonfire had got out of control, so the fire department was called. Martin and Elizabeth were the eye witnesses of the bonfire, so they had to tell the story to the fire department.

Evacuation

A young nine-year-old brown-haired boy named Henry, has sadly been evacuated from a house in London, from his family home, to the Welsh valleys.

As Henry approached the door, he swept his tears away from his cheek. The door opened and he took a step backwards. His face turned white he shivered and was breathing heavily. In front of him there were two figures, a short female and a tall man.

“Hello,” they both said. “I am Betty and this is my husband David.”

As Henry took his first step in through the door, dressed in ripped clothes and a dirty face, Betty and David welcomed him happily. Henry was a little less frightened.

David excitedly said, “We are happy to have you.”

Smiling, he settled in and they fed Henry food they had rationed. It was astonishingly delicious. After food, Henry was shown to his new bedroom.

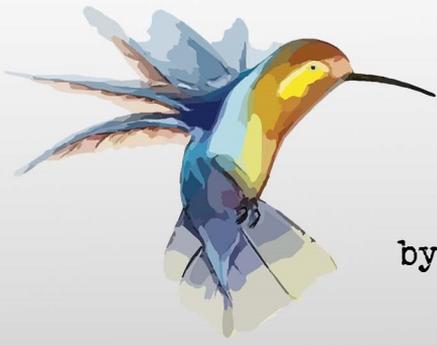

Betty said, “We have one more surprise.”

They opened the door slowly and a puppy came through. Henry softly stroked him then fell asleep with him in his arms.

The next day it was really strange Hitler hadn't attacked. This happened for numerous weeks. The countries were celebrating and the evacuees could go back! Henry was so happy he was going to see his mother... He got to his old white house. At last, he was finally going to see his mother again. As he saw his mother, he leaped towards her with tears running down their faces. At that moment the mother screamed for her life. The bomb siren went off.

“Ahhhhhh!”

The bomb hit and they exploded...

The Tragic WW2

by Luanna-Jae England

On the 13th of October, on a Friday in 139, a 12 year old girl, called Evelyn had found herself all alone, without her parents.

Evelyn was an only child, and her parents died the day before, on the 12th, the same day as her birthday. She was living all alone in her back garden, until she found a soft, adorable, bird, that had lost most of its feathers from the bombing of the bird's old house.

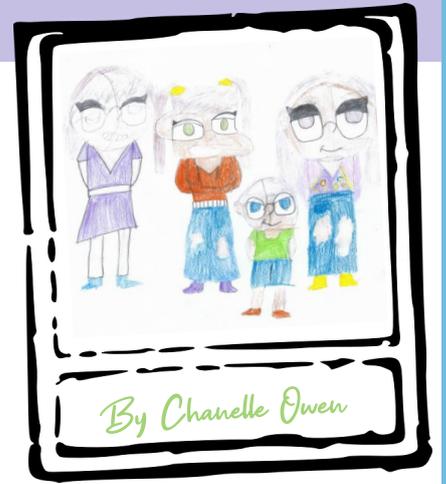

As Evelyn found this bird, she had a smile on her face, and her blue eyes lit up for the first time since WW2 had begun. In Evelyn's garden, she had been staying in an Anderson shelter, to keep herself safe from the bombs dropping above her; the only thing keeping herself entertained was knitting a blanket that she had started before the world war began, and also reading, as there was nothing she could do.

What Evelyn was most uncertain about living alone, was the power out, as she was terrified of the dark. Eventually, the power out had happened, her body was shaking like crazy, and she was also sweating, as she was petrified. Evelyn was holding her bird in her one hand, and chewing on her nails in her other. The bird, that Evelyn had named Birdy, noticed that she was shaking, and Birdy had created a tune to calm her down. Suddenly, Evelyn slowly began to try and find herself around in the dark, as she wanted to find some food for herself, and Birdy, but sadly, Evelyn realised she had made the biggest mistake of her life, she had fallen into her lampshade, and the fate of what she had been dreading the most had succumbed her... death. The dim light that had shone out of her door in her Anderson shelter attracted a bomb to land on her Anderson shelter. Her face then turned pale when she had realised what she had done.

Evelyn screamed as the bomb had taken the life of her, and Birdy.

The only remains left was the remaining feathers of Birdy, floating around in the air.

Lost Boy

“Daisy wake up!” shouted Daisy’s mother.

Daisy opened her mouth and yawned her hazel eyes lit up. Coming mother,” exclaimed Daisy.

Daisy put her hands in the air and stretched and then she opened her door and headed down stairs. “Morning Mother,” said Daisy while she picked up her apple. “Thanks for the breakfast, mother,” exclaimed Daisy.

“No problem,” said Daisy’s mother. Daisy walked by the door ready to go upstairs. “Oh, I forgot the new mini skirts are in fashion by Mary Quant,” said Daisy’s mother excitedly.

“No problem go ahead and get one. I’ll go wake up brother,” said Daisy.

“Thank you darling,” said Daisy’s mother as she walked out the door.

Daisy headed upstairs and into her brother’s room. “Brother, wake up!” shouted Daisy. Daisy swished her blonde hair and stomped out of the room. “Wait, brother!” exclaimed Daisy. “He’s not THERE!!” Daisy rushed down the stairs and out the door she ran to her best friend’s house and then knocked on the door.

Cally swished her brown hair while opening the door. “What wrong?” said Cally.

“It’s my brother. He’s missing!!”

Cally and Daisy ran to Daisy’s house and then into Daisy’s bed room.

“Let’s make a plan,” said Daisy.

They both heard footsteps coming from Daisy’s brother bed room, then Daisy’s door creaked open. Daisy went pale.

“Morning,” said Daisy’s brother.

“Oh, thank God you’re okay!” said Daisy.

Daisy’s brother Henry looked confused.

Daisy whispered to Cally, “He will never know.”

“Where’s mother?” said Henry.

“Gone to get the new mini skirt,” said Daisy, and then they all laughed.

THE MISSING GIRL

BY TAMZIN WARNER

Ellie is sixteen and has just left school. She likes boxing, hiking and, also, she love heights. Before she leaves to live in another area, she wants to explore the mountains close to her home.

Whilst out trekking through the mountains, she looks out at the view.

“What an awesome sight. Wait, there is something in the distance!” It’s a red range rover.

Ellie isn’t satisfied in what she sees but what comes next terrifies her... Ellie remembers that she has binoculars. She is able to see what’s in the car. Her face turns white and her stomach feels weird... She can’t believe what she just saw...

Even though Ellie spots Evelyn, there is someone guarding the car doors.

Wait! she thinks. How can I possibly help her from the guard? She thinks to herself, she is a boxer and knows that she will be able to defend herself.

Ellie wants to make a deal with the guard. She climbs down the slippery and cold mountain with aching feet, and sees the guard.

“What are you doing here”?

“I have come to rescue Evelyn,’ Ellie screams.

“NO!”

“Okay, let’s have a boxing match. If I win, I get Evelyn. If you win, you keep me and Evelyn.”

“Deal.”

They have the boxing match and Ellie wins. The guard walks away and gives Evelyn to Ellie.

“Whoa, I saved you...”

“Yes you did. Thank you!”

Ellie stares in disbelief as Evelyn hugs her in tears. Evelyn goes to walk away but Ellie calls her back. “Evelyn Wait! Can I teach you boxing and how to defend yourself in case anything happens to you again? Also, if you have nowhere safe to live, maybe you would like to be my roommate because I’m moving today.”

“Yes, why not.” Ellie and Evelyn become really good friends and Evelyn is now a champion boxer.

MASTER DISASTER

by Thomas Gillard

I was walking down a mysterious alleyway when I tripped over a twig but, when I woke up, I knew I wasn't in the same world I was before I tripped...

I Was Wearing Different, Old Clothes...

I must've time-warped Here...

"Hello? Anyone here?" I said loudly, but I couldn't hear a single soul, just my echo.

Yet I kept shouting, "HELP! IVE TIME WARPED! I'M NOT FROM THIS TIME OF ERA!!!" But then I stuttered, "N-No one's here... I'm A-Alone..."

I smelt smoke, fire, and the moss grew everywhere... I tried once more, "IS ANY-ONE HERE!?!?"

I was lost but heard a crunching noise. "W-Who's there...? I-I'm No-Not Afraid to F-Fight..." I heard it again... "Co-come on... I-I haven't g-got all da-day..."

I thought I was dreaming. I walked away but all I heard was "Boo..."

I woke up at an abandoned lab in a tube. Then someone shouted, "HE'S AWAKE!! SHUT THE DOORS, START THE QUESTIONING!"

He was terrified, knowing he was stuck in a test tube.

"Hello... Sir. Allow me to introduce myself..."

But before he spoke he felt dizzy. "Where Am I...? I Feel Dizzy..." He answered.

"My name is Jill and you're inside a Lab. You must feel dizzy because we've emitted gasses inside of your tube so you turn agile and strong."

Then I asked questions like, "Who are you?", "Where Are You From?", "How Old Are You?" and such.

A few minutes after, the room flickered from red to blue, red to blue.

"Stay here... there's been a breach..."

"Wait!" I said. "I could help you attack. I am agile and strong now..."

"Fine, but you owe me one for letting you free."

THE MYSTERIOUS DIMENSION

One day two boys went to the forest for a picnic on a nice summer's day. When they arrived, they noticed something strange on the grass. They walked up to it and then they saw it was a piece of metal with a red button.

"Should we press the button?" asked Edward as he was all shaky.

"Go on then" replied Carter.

They pressed the button and suddenly... BBBBAAAANNNGG!!! They had been sucked into a different world. It had been two minutes and then they had woken up.

"Where are we?" asked Edward as his eyes were filling up with water.

"I think we are in a different dimension. Look meet back here in five minutes and we will see what we find," said Carter.

So they had come back to the same spot and found nothing.

"What if we go together and search," they both said at the same time. So they had been searching for about twenty minutes and then they found an older man.

"Er, Hello. Where are we?" they asked.

"You're in the Overtake World where they take over worlds," he said in a very croaky voice.

"Who is they?" they asked confusingly.

There was a silence for two minutes and then he had finally answered. "The horrible monsters. I am the only human on this planet."

"Where can we find these monsters" asked Carter and the man pointed to the tall building. "Are you coming?" they had asked.

"No, I am too weak. Now go before our Earth destroys yours." He faded away in the dark. So, they headed to the tower.

"So how are we going to do this?" Edward had asked.

"Well we are going to go in there, defeat them, and then go home," said Carter as brave as a lion.

They got to the floor filled with monsters.

"Hello there," Carter said.

The monsters turned to see who was talking to them. They had an epic battle and Carter and Edward defeated them. "Let go home."

As they were just about to press the button, the older man appeared in front of them. They pressed the button. BBBBAAAANNNGG!!!

They were all back at the forest. "Let's go home."

Where they belong.

The Crazy Farm

by Darcie Thomas-Phillips

One bright Friday morning: “Vanessa wake up right now and get down here,” shouted mother.

“Coming mother,” said Vanessa.

“One of the pigs has just escaped, but your dad has gone to work so he can’t go out and find it,” said the mother.

After that, Vanessa had breakfast got dressed and put her shoes on and... BANGG!! BOOM!! BANG!! Another pig escaped. Vanessa quickly got her shoes on and started running for her life.

She was running, running and running until... she fell.

“OUCH,” screamed Vanessa.

She got back up and started running. She was superfast. She got to a dark and crowded forest, and all she could hear was creatures making very funny noises. At first, Vanessa thought it was funny but then she got a little bit scared. Vanessa would never give up even though she was scared but kept running and running.

She came to a big tree and saw an enormous pig. In fact there were TWO of them. Vanessa stayed quiet for a moment and they went off. Vanessa kept running until she caught one of the pigs in the corner of her eye. It was Peppa.

Peppa began to run so Vanessa ran after her. She dived on Peppa and managed to grab her by her tail. Peppa was able to break free and began to run with George trying to escape from Vanessa. Then, they came to a pond and the two pigs jumped into the lake. The pigs were so talented, they were absolutely amazing!! Suddenly, the pigs started running back home and then Vanessa’s father came home and started helping Vanessa look and chase after the pigs. Now the fun began. The pigs started running home.

“Nes, you go that way and I’ll sneak this way,” whispered the father.

However, the pigs started running home and finally they went back into their barn. Vanessa and her father went to have some tea and biscuits, tidy up and went to pick up Vanessa’s brother from school.

They had their delicious dinner and something started happening. All the animals in the house were flying. Vanessa and her family were totally confused. But in the end Vanessa was only dreaming!!

THE BROTHERS

BY ANDAN LLOYD

WHO WANTED

HEATING

One sunny Saturday a twenty-seven-year-old boy named Henry and his two brothers, Jake and Bob, all lived in a flat in Cardiff.

One day a council man came and knocked on the door and said, “Sorry but you and your brothers will have to leave because you’re poor and you aren’t paying any bills.”

Henry won a lucky draw prize and it was a farm house. In this farm house where Henry, Jake and Bob all lived the heating broke and they had no money. On a Sunday morning, Henry woke and saw that he had won a massive £10,000 on the lottery and Henry said I can buy us a new heating out of some of this money. We can also buy some sheep out of this money. They were all scared that one day the sheep were going to get stolen and Bob and Jake are scared of heights too.

Sadly, five of the sheep got stolen and three weeks later 2 lambs die.

Henry’s favourite colour was yellow. They all played a game of football called cuppies on the farm grass then they all ate their favourite food: Henry’s was spaghetti carbonara, Jake’s was pizza and Bob’s was spaghetti bolognese.

Sometimes they ate Lipton Onion Soup Dip and also stuffed Crescent Rolls as in pigs in blankets. When they needed to get to places, they had to travel by trains and aeroplanes. They all had jobs and Henry’s was a deliver driver. Jake was a factory man and Bob was a broadcaster. They all loved the Beatles take over America.

They also heard about all the key events like; England winning the world cup, JFK assassinated, Martin Luther King speech, Martin Luther King assassinated, Andy Warhol created Campbell’s soup can, Neil Armstrong landed on the moon, Yuri Gagarin was the first man in space and Lego came to Britain.

HOPE CITY

BY SEREN WILLIAMS

“There you go little cat,” whispered Aspen breathless. “Come on, Wilder. Lets go.” Aspen and Wilder continued to walk until they saw a sign saying Hope City, but the only thing they could see was fog.

Aspen decided to climb a tall tree to see if she could see anything, as she got to the top she noticed a slight smell of burning. She climbed down, then continued to walk while questioning her decision on coming here.

Half an hour later they arrived. Then, all of a sudden, a lady whispered to Aspen, “Don’t go in Ralph’s!”

Before she could reply, the lady had vanished out of sight. Aspen got goose bumps.

Aspen went to her hotel and opened her door to her room and couldn’t believe her eyes... it was a flying package! Her parents must have sent her it, she opened it and it contained a jar.

“WHAT!” exclaimed Aspen. She had just learned that the town had a spirit, Ralph, which kept destroying their town. Ralph had got poisoned and now destroys the town. Aspen was determined to free the town from Ralph even if she had to face her worst fear!

While reading a book Aspen discovered to get rid of Ralph she needed to get a jar of lightning, dog fur and then chant the spirit’s name.

Aspen already had a jar from her parents so she raced to get it, luckily for her it had already been thundering she went outside placed the jar in the road while looking at all the damage Ralph had caused.

Aspen took cover and covered her ears to drown out the sound of the thunder and children screaming. “BOOM” the jar had filled with lightning and Aspen took a bit of Wilder’s fur then placed it in the jar. They both went to the outside of Ralph’s and chanted his name.

Ralph tried to stop her but it was too late... he was gone!
